THE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

Rules of broadcasting and Security guidelines

Security procedures

- All bags will be screened by our security staff before you are granted access to the press conference. To ensure a smooth and efficient entry process, please bring only the equipment necessary to cover the press conference and avoid carrying additional items or personal belongings (i.e. airport security check).
- We recommend arriving well in advance to allow time for the security check.

Registration of accredited press, 08:30 – 10:30

Please use the main entrance from Henrik Ibsens gate. Late arrivals will not get access.

Rules of broadcasting and conduct during the press conference

- No live reporting is permitted inside the Grand Hall during the press conference. If you need to go live before the press conference has concluded, this can be done from the terrace area outside.
- Sound conditions in the Grand Hall are challenging, so we kindly ask that everyone remains silent and refrains from speaking until the press conference has officially ended.
- The announcement text from the Norwegian Nobel Committee will be distributed at the exact moment when the Chair of the Norwegian Nobel Committee Jørgen Watne Frydnes announces the name(s) of this year's laureate(s).

After the press conference and interviews

- Once interviews have been completed, everyone is kindly asked to leave the Norwegian Nobel Institute. All visitors will have to leave the institute by 13.00 at the latest (unless there is a special appointment).
- If you need a place to work afterwards, there are several cafés nearby with good working conditions and reliable Wi-Fi.

Thank you for your understanding and cooperation, and a very warm welcome!

Kind regards
